BREWSTER ON LAW.

He Submits His Annual Report, Containing Many Valuable Suggestions.

Oriminal Proceedings Should be Shorn of Dilatory Measures and Common Law Forms of Past Ages.

> tentiary-The Star Route Trials, Etc.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 126 .-Attorney-General Brewster has completed his annual report. It contains a number of suggestions and recommendations looking to new legislation amendatory of existing statutes. Our criminal procedure is faulty. In criminal cases the pleadings should be simplified, a uniform system of challenges provided and the trials shorn of the technical objections and numberless dilatory motions that can now be interposed to prevent a speedy trul upon merits. In preparing indictments for offenses against the United States it is now necessary to follow the common law forms of the last century, with all their technicalities, verbosity of description and repetitions, so that what hould be a simple and concise written accusation, becomes a long and confused mass of descriptions and allegations, wholly unlutelligible to both defendant and jury.

With a view to remedying the cylls, omissions and defects of oriminal procuture Mr Browstor submits a number of carefully prepared forms, and recommends their adoption as general laws for the courts of the United States. He recommends that the statutes authorizing outgoing United States Marshals to execute all processes in their hands at the expiration of their commission, be changed. so as to require them to turn over to their an ceasors all unfinished business. The present law, Mr. Brewster says, leads to confusion and conflict of authority, as well as delay in the settlement of Marstal succounts.

110 recommends salaries for United States Marshals and District Attorneys. The present foo system is an expensive one It is estimated that it costs the Government 810 in expenses for every dollar of the Marshal's emoluments which show, that it would be to the interest of the Covernment to give the Marshal f inducements to perpetrate frauds upon the Government and frauds upon the cit-

It is not always possible to secure such treatment and discipline for prisoners confined in State and monicipal institutions best calculated to affect their reformation. United States prisoners, as rule, are of a better class of men than the average convict, and are capable of performing better work. It a Government prison were erreted the convicts could be employed in the manifacture of supplies exclusively for the toverment.
This would keep them employed, and should render the Penitentury almost self-sustainting. It also would avoid any objection to convict labor, while the hady of the burden of supporting them. The condition of the public service, Mr Brewster says, so far as it relates to officials in his department, is greatly improved. This is due to the active efforts of the present administration in checking irregularilles, correcting abuses and punishing francis and exactions committed by Marshals, District Attorneys and Commissioners in a number of districts. In every case where these matters came to his attention he has done all in his power to remedy, and in some cases has succeeded in the conviction and pub-He punishment of such offenders. COL. BOB. INGERSOLL The Pastor of the "Big Church" Talks Two Hours in Decatur.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, of Washington City, the renowned free-thinker and omedian of the lecture platform, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Indianapolis, accompanied by his son-inlaw. Mr. C. P. Farrell, and was given room No. 77 at the New Deming hotel. During the evening about twenty citizens of the city called at the hotel and paid their respects to the visitor and satisfied their whetted curiosity by looking at the proceedings were had in the Appellate famous iconoclast and chatting with him. Pope Bob received all with his accustomed cordiality and spun a number of yarns to keep the callers in good spirits. He touched upon politics and gave it as his opinion that the Republicans would have swept the country easily with Gresham, of Indians, and White, of New York, as candidates for president and vice president respectively. Speaking of his silence in the Blaine campaign, Bob said he was no politician and because he could mix "religion" with politics, he lit out early in the fight for his ranch in New Mexico.

"Orthodoxy," or soundness in doctrine, was the subject of Col. Ingersoll's lecture at the opera house last evening, before a large audience, in which there was a very noticeable absence of church people, professing christians, law-abiding, benevolent, charitable and exemplary citizens of they look beyond in faith to a happier existence, here on earth endeavor as best hey can to bear each other's burdens and make their families comfortable and happy. The audience was made up largely of a class of people denominated as freethinkers, with a sprinkling of ladies and just a few church members. The only preacher the reporter nuticed was Rev. T. W. Pinkerton, of the Christian church, who entered with Judge Nelson. On the front seats was a good representation of those in the community who are always hungry to read anything Ingersoll has t The lecturer came upon the stage un-

To-DAY marriage licenses were issued He commenced by saying, "after all how to George Rutherford and Matilda little we know," and he closed with sub-Schlipp, and to David T. Park and Elma stantially the same declaration. Throughont the entertaining talk, the Colonel was eloquent and witty, and impressed the hearer that he stood there upon the stage not only to give vent to spiteful utterances and to defend himself as to the po sition he occupies as arrayed against the christian pulpits and people of the civilized world, but also to entertain the audience with his cutting ridicule of all religion not purely Ingersollic, and to make display of his cratorical ability. He did this to perfection, and kept the audience laughing and applauding nearly the Lee Justice Corley has deferred giving entire evening. He said a vast amount of good things touching the correct manner of living and drew a number of word pictures that were grandly beautiful.

The chief purpose of the lecturer wa to ridicule the creeds of the Protestant churches and to burlesque-Catholicism. He denied the inspiration of the Bible, and said it was the work of Barbarians. Special providences he denounced as fool ish and nonsensical, and he denied that any such miracles as described in the Bible were ever performed. As a whole the lecture was just such as one would expect to hear from the lips of Ingersoll, but with all his learning and research Bob didn't offer his hearers anything better to improve the condition of humanity than that which is taught by the ministers of the generally accepted Don't forget that Friday evening will gospel. Does a Man Own Ills Head!

One of the questions which an Englishman recently left his heirs to quarred over was the right to his head. The deceased had sold it to the local physical in consideration of his paying the funeral expenses, and when the time came for the delivery to be made, he called for it, but the heirs, who said they were perfectly willing to pay the funeral expenses themselves, demurred, and refusud to carry out the agreement. The aid of the courts was then invoked, and at last accounts the matter was not decided. In the meantime, the value of the head for purposes of dissection, if that is what the physician wanted it for, is rapidly diminishing and soon will be of no value wheever. The English courts have at various times held that there could be no property, in the ordinary sense in which the term is used, in a dead body; and the interesting question now comes up whether the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership, such as it is, is vested in the ownership such as a contract and produced converged to the Recorder of Deceaur, Illinois, by deed of trust, dated the Saxteen unty, little, and buy of suce, A.
